Programs developed by MultiLit address key literacy skills and understandings that have been established as critical to reading success in research studies. The main emphasis is on reading and, therefore, some of the skills and understandings related to writing and speaking and listening that are included in the Australian Curriculum: English are either not addressed, or are given less emphasis in our programs. In addition, our programs may focus on some, but not all, aspects of the content of the curriculum. Please note that MultiLit programs are interventions for students who are struggling and should be used in addition to other aspects of the English curriculum.
