PD eLearning Modules

Frequently Asked Questions

---

What is Reading Tutor Program eLearning modules (ERTP)?

A professional development workshop delivered via eight (8) self-paced 30-minute eLearning modules. Each module includes video demonstrations and practical activities providing participants with opportunities to apply and consolidate their knowledge of the key features of the Reading Tutor Program. Participants will receive immediate feedback as they work their way through the online training materials.

Who can train in the Reading Tutor Program?

The eLearning modules are available for staff in accredited schools and educational institutions, including paraprofessionals. Staff who would otherwise be unable to attend training due to location and/or time constraints may benefit from undertaking this fully online course, at their own pace.

How do I log in to start the RTP eLearning modules?

Upon registration, you will receive a confirmation email prompting you to create an account in MultiLit's online learning platform. To create your account and access the modules, simply:

- Use your school/professional email address
- Create your own password

Can I use my mobile device to complete my eLearning modules?

Yes, the course is compatible to complete on a range of platforms, including PC, Mac, smartphone and tablet devices.

Is there a time limit to complete all the eLearning modules?

Yes. Upon initial login, participants will have a maximum of four (4) weeks to complete all training requirements. You can revisit the modules at any time, during this period, using any device.

How can I access my study notes?

Study notes for each module can be downloaded from the online learning platform to guide you through your training.

Can I attempt the modules in any order?

No. You must follow the set sequence and complete the modules in the sequence provided.

What topics are covered in each eLearning module?

1. Course introduction
2. Unpack the Reading Tutor Program Kit
3. Word Attack Skills introduction
4. Word Attack Skills accuracy
5. Word Attack Skills fluency
6. Sight Words introduction
7. Sight Words daily session
8. Reinforced Reading

How long does each module take to complete?

The modules are self-paced. As a guide, participants should allow approximately 30-40 minutes (minimum) to complete each module. Some participants may require additional time to revisit the content of each module.

Why is training necessary?

Professional Development training ensures that the Reading Tutor Program is implemented appropriately and delivered correctly. Training also provides teachers, and teacher assistants, with the theoretical and practical knowledge necessary to use the program with confidence.

Although the program is user-friendly, the style of teaching and the detailed content around reading instruction may not be familiar to all teachers and paraprofessionals. When school staffing changes, it is highly recommended that new teachers and teacher assistants undertake training to keep updated with the required knowledge.

Will my eLearning be accredited?

Yes. Relevant NESQA and TQI accreditation will apply for RTP via eLearning. Further information regarding accreditation is available on the MultiLit website here.

How is the Reading Tutor Program different to MacqLit?

The Reading Tutor Program is designed for one-to-one instruction only. MacqLit is designed for delivery to small groups of students. MacqLit is a fully scripted program and covers a wider range of skills. The MacqLit program combines phonic skills from the Reading Tutor Program (RTP) and Word Attack Skills Extension Program. The earlier levels of MacqLit (Parts A-D) correspond roughly with the skills covered by the Reading Tutor Program, and MacqLit Parts E-I correspond roughly with the skills in the Word Attack Skills Extension Program. RTP should be delivered three to five times per week for 40 minutes per session. Ideally, MacqLit should be delivered four to five times per week and typically takes one hour to deliver.
